Welcome
Honoring Our
Native Women &
Girls
A National Day of Awareness
May 5th, 2021

“While history cannot be undone, changes to current federal policies can increase the safety of Native women to save lives. Before the MMIWG crisis can be fully addressed, it must first be acknowledged.”
-Cherrah Giles, NIWRC Board Chair
Honoring Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women & Girls

Public Awareness

Public Honoring

► Honor the women
► Support their loved ones
► Support community healing
An Alarming Pattern of Missing and Murdered in the U.S.

- Native women are murdered and go missing at a higher rate than any other ethnic group.
- Many of these cases are part of the spectrum of violence against Native women.
- On some reservations women are murdered at a rate 10 times higher than the national average.
- 2017 Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) homicide is the 6th leading cause of death of Native females between ages of 1-44.
Lack of Consequences for Violent Crimes Against Native Women

- Native women are vulnerable to a wide spectrum of violence often intersecting with cases of MMIW.
- The National Institute of Justice reports that more than four in five AI/AN adults (83 percent) have experienced some form of violence in their lifetime.
- Among AI/AN women, more than 1 in 2 have experienced physical violence by intimate partners or sexual violence in their lifetime, and more than 1 in 12 have experienced it in the past year.
- Vulnerability is due in part to the lack of legal consequences reflected in the minimal to zero number of federal prosecutions of domestic violence and sexual assault abusers and sex traffickers.
- Vulnerability is also due in part to the lack of tribal specific services for Native women and the lack of full authority to protect Native women.
- Due to this reality Indian tribes and Indigenous communities are encouraged to prepare to respond if a woman goes missing.
A Pattern of Failed Systemic Response

- Native woman is missing
- Report is made
- Inadequate response by criminal system
- Community search for MMIW
- Community walk and other social justice actions
Malinda Limberhand, Northern Cheyenne Nation

- A National Day of Awareness for Missing and Murdered Native Women and Girls
- May 5th is the birthday of my daughter Hanna Harris who went missing on July 4, 2013 and was murdered.
- Organize for changes needed at the tribal, state, and national level
- Increase public awareness: wear red, post your efforts on social media
- Honor our Native women and girls
Organizing for Changes Needed
Organize for the changes needed at the tribal, state, and national levels.
Wear red and post on social media to call for changes needed.

#MMIWGTakeAction #NoMoreStolenSisters #MMIWG
“As a mother, nothing will replace the loss of my daughter but by organizing to support the National Day of Awareness and creating the changes needed I know it will help others. And Hanna and so many others will not be forgotten.”

Let’s continue to build community. Let’s show up in whatever way we can. Let’s support those in this work and the families. Let’s find solutions to ending this epidemic.
The system is broken. I lost my daughter and I know my granddaughters face the same danger. We all do.
